

20ft New Container Specification

ISO stands for 'International Standards Organisation.' ISO containers are designed for the shipping and transportation of goods. An ISO container is resilient and reliable for repeated use. They are designed to be easily filled or emptied, and they are constructed according to the quality criteria and dimensions set by ISO standards.

Most containers are made in China and used to ship cargo into the UK in a single trip. This is the most common type of 'new' shipping containers in the UK.
